Institution.

Not far from this city there is a bright little boy who probably does not know that the man and woman with whom he lives are not his own parents, but he would never have had the loving care and the advantages which now are his had it not been for the Children's Home Society of Virginia. Until

Home Society of Virginia. Until he was 3 years old this little fellow, who is declared to be as bright and promising as any lad in Richmond, lived in a cave in the mountains with his mother, the only home he had known until the county officers found him and notified the society.

One of its workers brought the boy to the receiving home, where he was scrubbed, trained and physically examined, and when those who now treat him as their son asked. It him, and were found worthy, he was allowed to go to them. But there are 10,000 other little children in this Commonwealth who have not been rescued and are in desperate need of help, and it is few and in the control of the part of the part

When You Send It

"VIA PARCELS POST"

D ID it ever occur to you how many hands a parcels post package must pass through—in the process of collecting, counting, assorting, classifying, routing, etc .- before it finally is delivered at its intended destination? Because it never did to some people, and because they fail to use sufficient care in wrapping, tying or addressing, some parcels do not reach their destinations at all!

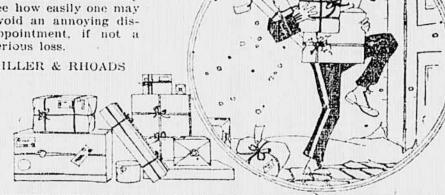

TODAY, at the invitation of the Postmaster-General, approximately two thousand Postmasters will hold a conference in Richmond, among the purposes of which are to more fully acquaint the general public with the workings of the Parcels Post System, to encourage its more general use by greater numbers of people, and to advance it to higher degrees of efficiency through the more thoughtful co-operation, both of consignor and consignee.

To see that every parcel is securely wrapped and fastened, and plainly and sufficiently addressed, should be the first thoughts of all who have articles or goods to send to other points, whether via parcels post or any other route.

An Interesting Demonstration

-of the "Right Way" as well as the "Wrong Way" to wrap parcels for transportation may now be seen in one of our Broad Street Show Windows. In it one may see how easily one may avoid an annoying disappointment, if not a serious loss.
